An expression of belief that the presence of the big Curtiss hydroaeroplane, which the Aero Club of America and the national aerial coast patrol commission have had an exhibition opposite the House office building for some time past played an important part in the action of the House yesterday, when that body raised the naval committee's estimate for aeronautics from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000, was voiced this morning by Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary and Earl Hamilton Smith, chairman and secretary of the commission.

Admiral Peary, whose words were echoed by Mr. Smith, said in part: "Yesterday afternoon, while the amendment of Representative Roberts of Massachusetts, increasing the appropriation was pending on the floor, deputations of members, accompanied by Senator Lippitt of Rhode Island, made another inspection of the machine and asked searching questions about the average life of an aeroplane engine, about which there seems to have been a mistaken idea in congressional circles. The members returned to the House and the amendment passed soon thereafter by a vote of 129 to 102.

Not Brought for Purpose.

"This is aside from the fact that the big liner was not brought to Washington to induce congressmen to vote an increased appropriation for aeronautics.

"Now the boat is to be sent to Newport News, leaves tomorrow at noon, after being turned up it will fly back to Washington, and will carry passengers in exhibition flights up and down the Potomac. Many members of Congress, some of whom already have ridden in hydro and aerob, say they want to go up in the big boat, and they will be accommodated.

LUMBERMEN MUST TURN TO FOREIGN MARKETS

Stagnation in the Industry. Overcapitalization and Wasteful Methods Make It Necessary.

CHICAGO, June 1.—American lumber manufacturers, seeking a remedy for stagnation in their industry, must turn to foreign markets to escape the results of years of overcapitalization and wasteful methods, Dr. Edward E. Pratt, chief of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce today told a meeting of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

"Many of the hardships which the lumbermen of today suffer are not of their own making," said Dr. Pratt. "There seems to be, however, some inexorable economic law that requires a future compensation sometimes for an earlier prodigality and wastefulness.

Would Form Combinations.

Lumbermen who put their case before the federal trade commission and asked permission to form combinations are seeking a legal remedy for an economic problem, said the speaker. "The remedy," he said, "lies in inside reform of the lumbermen's methods. It was the manufacturers' idea that they could form combinations, one of the objects of which would be to regulate production, which would take care of overcapitalization, and would enable you to increase profits at the same time."
